---------------------	---------------------

A food diary is a really useful way of learning about your food habits. When you are making changes to your diet it is a way of checking how you are going. People who keep food diaries regularly tend to be more successful in managing their weight.

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Write down everything (except plain water) that you eat and drink, no matter how small the amount.
2. Give as much information as possible about the foods and drinks you eat. It is very useful if you include:
 - Brand name e.g. Home Brand chips, Cadburys Rocky Road chocolate bar
 - Food weight where known. Try looking on the packaging for this.
 - How the food was cooked e.g. fried, grilled, raw etc. You may need to ask your parents for help with this.
3. Estimating food weights:
 - Give an idea of the amount of the food eaten e.g. cheese cubes-2 x matchbox size
 - Use household measures such as spoonfuls e.g. teaspoon, serving spoon, or cups. If you are eating at home then ask your parents to help with this.

HUNGER

We often eat when we are not hungry. It is possible when you change what you are eating you may feel more or less hungry than normal. There is a line in your diary for you to mark with an 'X' how hungry you are before you eat anything. You may be at either end of the line or somewhere along the line.

REMEMBER

It is very easy to forget what you have eaten so carry your diary with you and try to write things down while eating.
